November 16, 1984 was designated as Parents Day, a TIME for parents of the students to re-live the "good-ole-days" of their high school years. Students whose parents attended classes that day were allowed to stay home to catch up on sleep and watch their favorite soap operas. Others came to school and enjoyed the freedom of seven study halls and lunch at McDonalds. Because of the tremendous rate of participation, Parents Day has been established as a tradition at PSHS.

Mike Jacobs and Casey Bailey "do it all for you" at McDonald's.

Kim Echols shows us how to dress stylishly for work.

"Service with a smile" is Kristin Anderson's motto.

Pam Powell and her racks and racks of Just Pants.

Lisa Fashion — Leggett's passionate salesperson.

In order to earn money for clothes, cars, college, or just to have spending money for the weekends, many PSHS students held part-time jobs. Many students could be seen behind the counters of Leggett, Electronic Mart, Roses, and McDonalds or maybe even climbing the ladder at Just Pants. Even though minimum wage is only $3.35 per hour, students enjoyed the luxury of having the extra money.

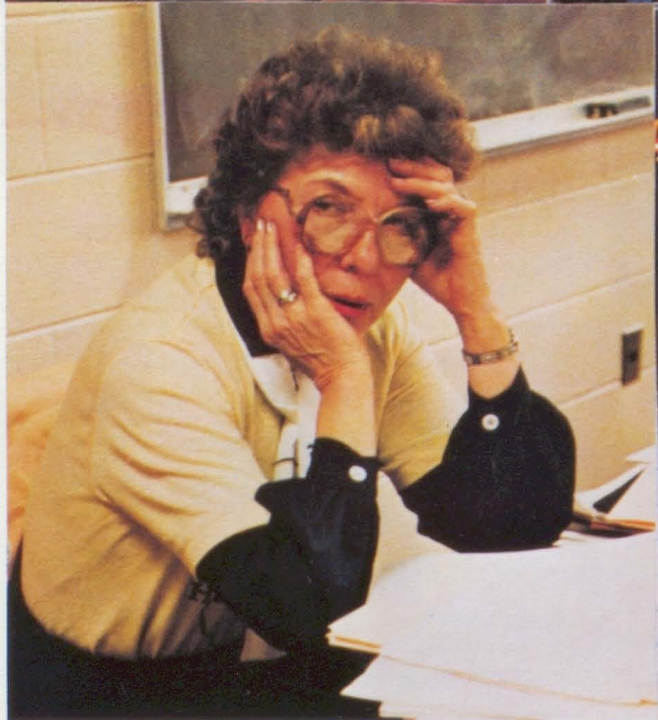

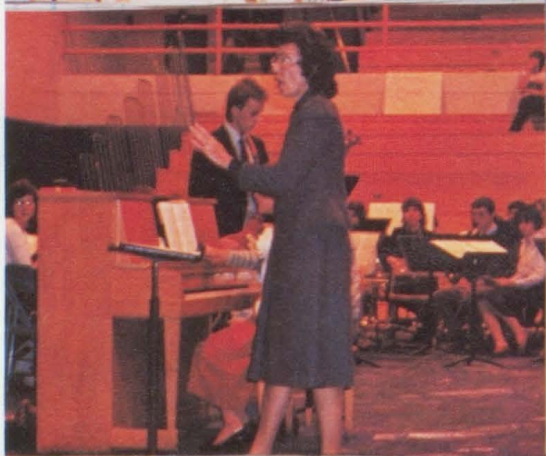

Simple Symonds says, "Shop and save at Electronix Mart."

Donna Levitt takes stock at Stone & Thomas.

Halloween was a TIME for students to show their "true" selves in dress and character. During this third annual event, teachers participated overwhelmingly. In the pictures above we see Nurse Sherri Bowman, Rhonda Ball as Little Red Riding Hood, and Mr. Gilbert Bolling as a werewolf. Below, Carla "Mary" Neal poses with Sandy Ware and Sue Buchanon.

Carl Black steps out at night.

Terri Powell and Donna Billings ham it up!

Saturday Night Fever!!!

Wherever you may go on weekends you can bet that you will see many Tiger students out on the prowl. On Friday and Saturday nights, the mall, movie theaters, the bowling alley and the skating rink are overflowing with high school students, not to mention the string of cars that cruise Mercer Street. Students flock to these popular places in order to break the monotony of the school week.

Wild and wacky Karen!!!

Shawn Farley does the swim.

1984-85 will be remembered as the TIME to "do-your-own-thing". Everything from the very dressy to the outrageous was acceptable.

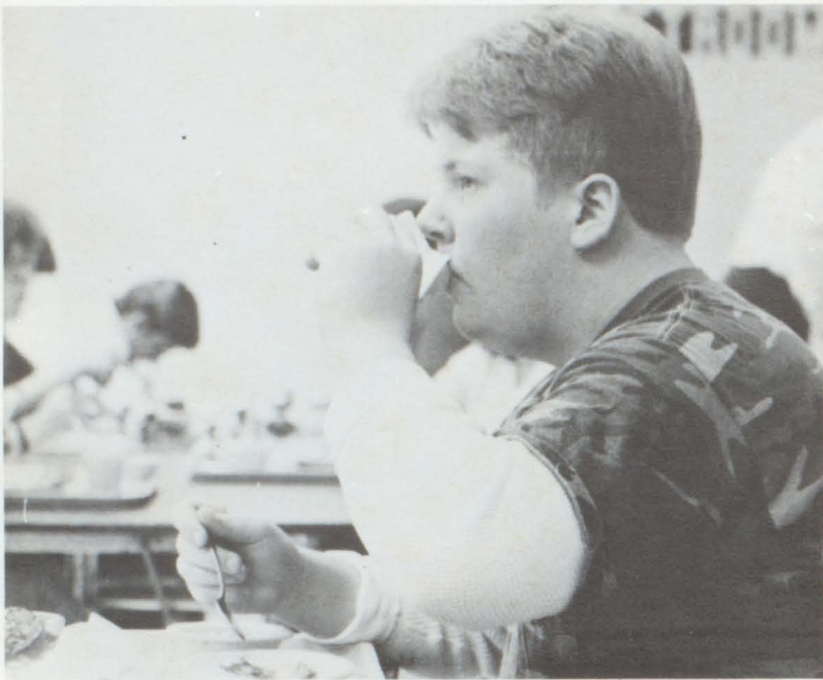

Opposite, a group of seniors display the various styles of jeans that were worn during the past year. Next, Gail Barton, Susan Gombash, and Letitia Terry are clad in the very bright and energetic fluorescent colors that also became popular this past year. Although there were wild and crazy styles, cords and sweaters were also worn by a majority of the students, as Scott Giffin, Missi Hood, Rhonda Ball, Amir Piracha, and Ralph Kinzer demonstrate.

Aside from fashion, music of the past year was appealing to most students. Among the most popular songs were "Jump", "When Doves Cry", "Foot-loose", "Against All Odds", and "Almost Paradise". There were also some very well-liked movies this year. Movies such as Purple Rain, produced many popular songs and helped push Prince above Michael Jackson in the music industry, drew record crowds and earned millions of dollars. Police Academy and Beverly Hills Cop were also among the top in ticket sales.

Thus, fashion, music, and movies of the past year have greatly appealed to students of P.S.H.S.

JAMES B. BARTLE
 Ambition: To own my own business.

1985 was definitely a TIME for seniors to have lots of fun. After working hard for two years at being dedicated, intelligent students, we felt the TIME was right to cut loose. We survived being pushed around as sophomores by upperclassmen and taking junior state tests, PSAT tests, ACT tests, and SAT tests; finally, we were facing our last year at P.S.H.S. As maturing young men and women, we had acquired certain standards in entertainment. Our tastes were more for cultural events, although sometimes a few seniors could be found indulging in rather odd activities. A look into the halls might reveal Tim Belcher, dressed in a very interesting outfit, munching on Greek goodies, or Arden Gatchell and Carin Anderson doing the "hokey pokey" in the cafeteria. Lisa Pashion and Sandy Johnston might even be found sneaking into school late, still wearing their pajamas. Obviously, although being practically adults, our seniors were young enough in spirit to have a little fun.

If this year was a TIME for seniors to have fun, it was also a TIME for them to stand out as individuals. Apparently, the class of 1985 just couldn't bear being ordinary. Most students would get upset over a killer test, but senior Mike Robinette turned into a real monster. Or try telling any senior a little bit of juicy gossip; their reaction probably would resemble the wild look on Kim Hall's face. The worst word to ever mention to a senior was beach! Even the most timid in spirit turned maniac at the mere whisper of the word. Just look at these two "California Girls," Parker Hall and Barry England. They were dressed up and ready to hit the strand, just like the entire senior class.

THE STUDIOUS SENIOR

THE SUSPICIOUS SENIOR

THE SMILING SENIOR

THE SPYING SENIOR

THE SNEAKY SENIOR

There were many TIMES when just looking at seniors would bring to mind all sorts of thoughts. Some seniors were wild and crazy while others were laid back or conservative. But no matter what mood or description, all of our seniors were fun and our camera captured several girls who showed the ups and downs of senior life. Our models were Susie Coleman, Vicki Bailey, Missy Cecil, Dreama Pennington, Karen Syres, Allena Coburn, and Betty Pettrey.

Do you put on a smile before or after Senior English?

Is there a dress code for Senior English?

Do all seniors wonder if they will pass Senior English?

Will seniors do odd tricks to pass Senior English?

Are all seniors amazed when they pass Senior English?

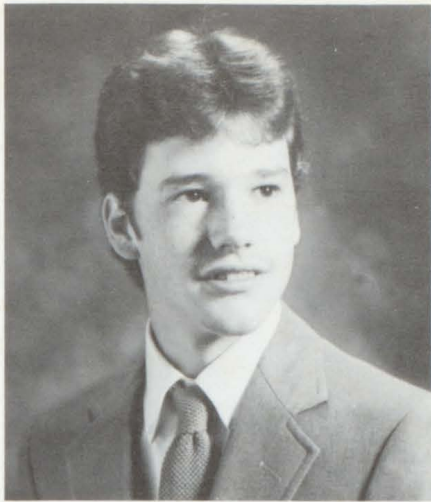

Will seniors just choose to go play frisbee instead of going to Senior English?

The seniors at P.S.H.S. had a great TIME in 1985. The only complaint they could possibly have had was — yes, that's right — the ever-dreaded Senior English. This class caused many a student to scream in frustration as they stayed up late to finish bibliographies and critical reviews. Above, we have several seniors pictured as examples of the "Senior English Blues." They are Mark Shepherd, Tim Meadows, Wess Hardin, Carl Pennington, Chris Hardy, Joe Stafford, Susan Tibbs, and Scott Elliott.

The class of 1985 really did enjoy their TIME as seniors. Looking back, the years spent in the halls of P.S.H.S. were filled with memories of fun times and good friends. Everyone had his own favorite memories: the big game, the terrific party, the impossible test, the Prom, or that special date. With so many events and people highlighting our high school days, it is hard to name them all, but below we have made a list of a few memorable seniors. We asked all the seniors this question: "What senior do you think of when you hear . . . ?"

Rhonda is hard at work on the Jr. Civitan window for the homecoming festivities.

Sandi seems to have ulterior motives for attending Jr. Civitan meetings.

The Jr. Civitans spent many hours collecting money or having fund raisers for such organizations as the Heart Fund. They held a Christmas party for the under-privileged children at the Presbyterian Church, where they gave them gifts, served refreshments, and played games with the kids. The Jr. Civitans spent long hours in beneficial service to the community, while at the same time enjoying fellowship with each other.

John seems to have a great new idea for a fund raiser.

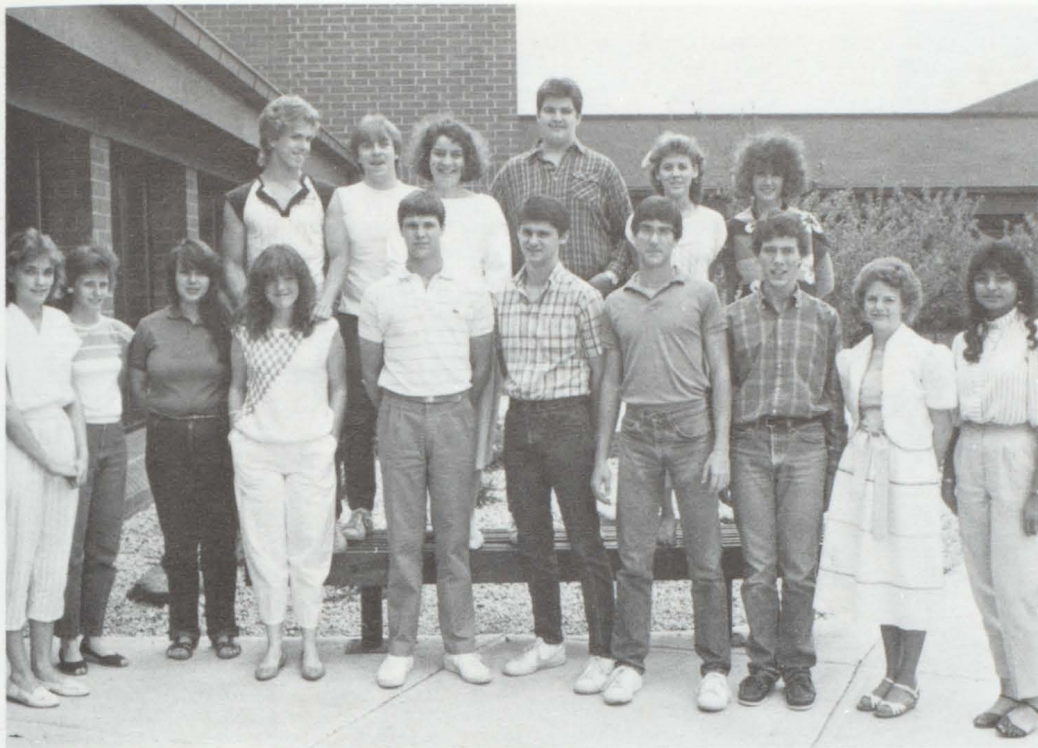

Lisa takes notes at the Jr. Civitan meeting to keep track of the upcoming events.

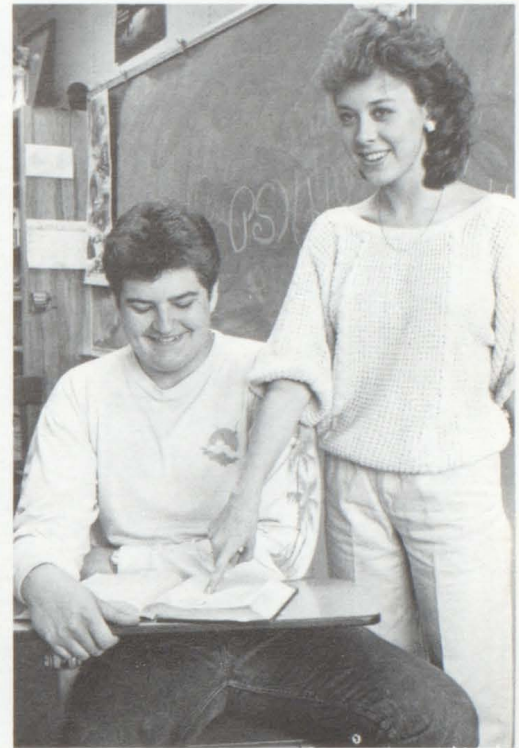

Ms. Montrosse and Rhonda Ball, our fearless leaders?

Crystal and Melissa can relax after preparing a Christmas snack for the French Club.

Selling the oranges is only half the work. Tina displays the other half . . . unloading and delivering them!

The French Club Banquet is a welcomed appreciation for a year's hard work.

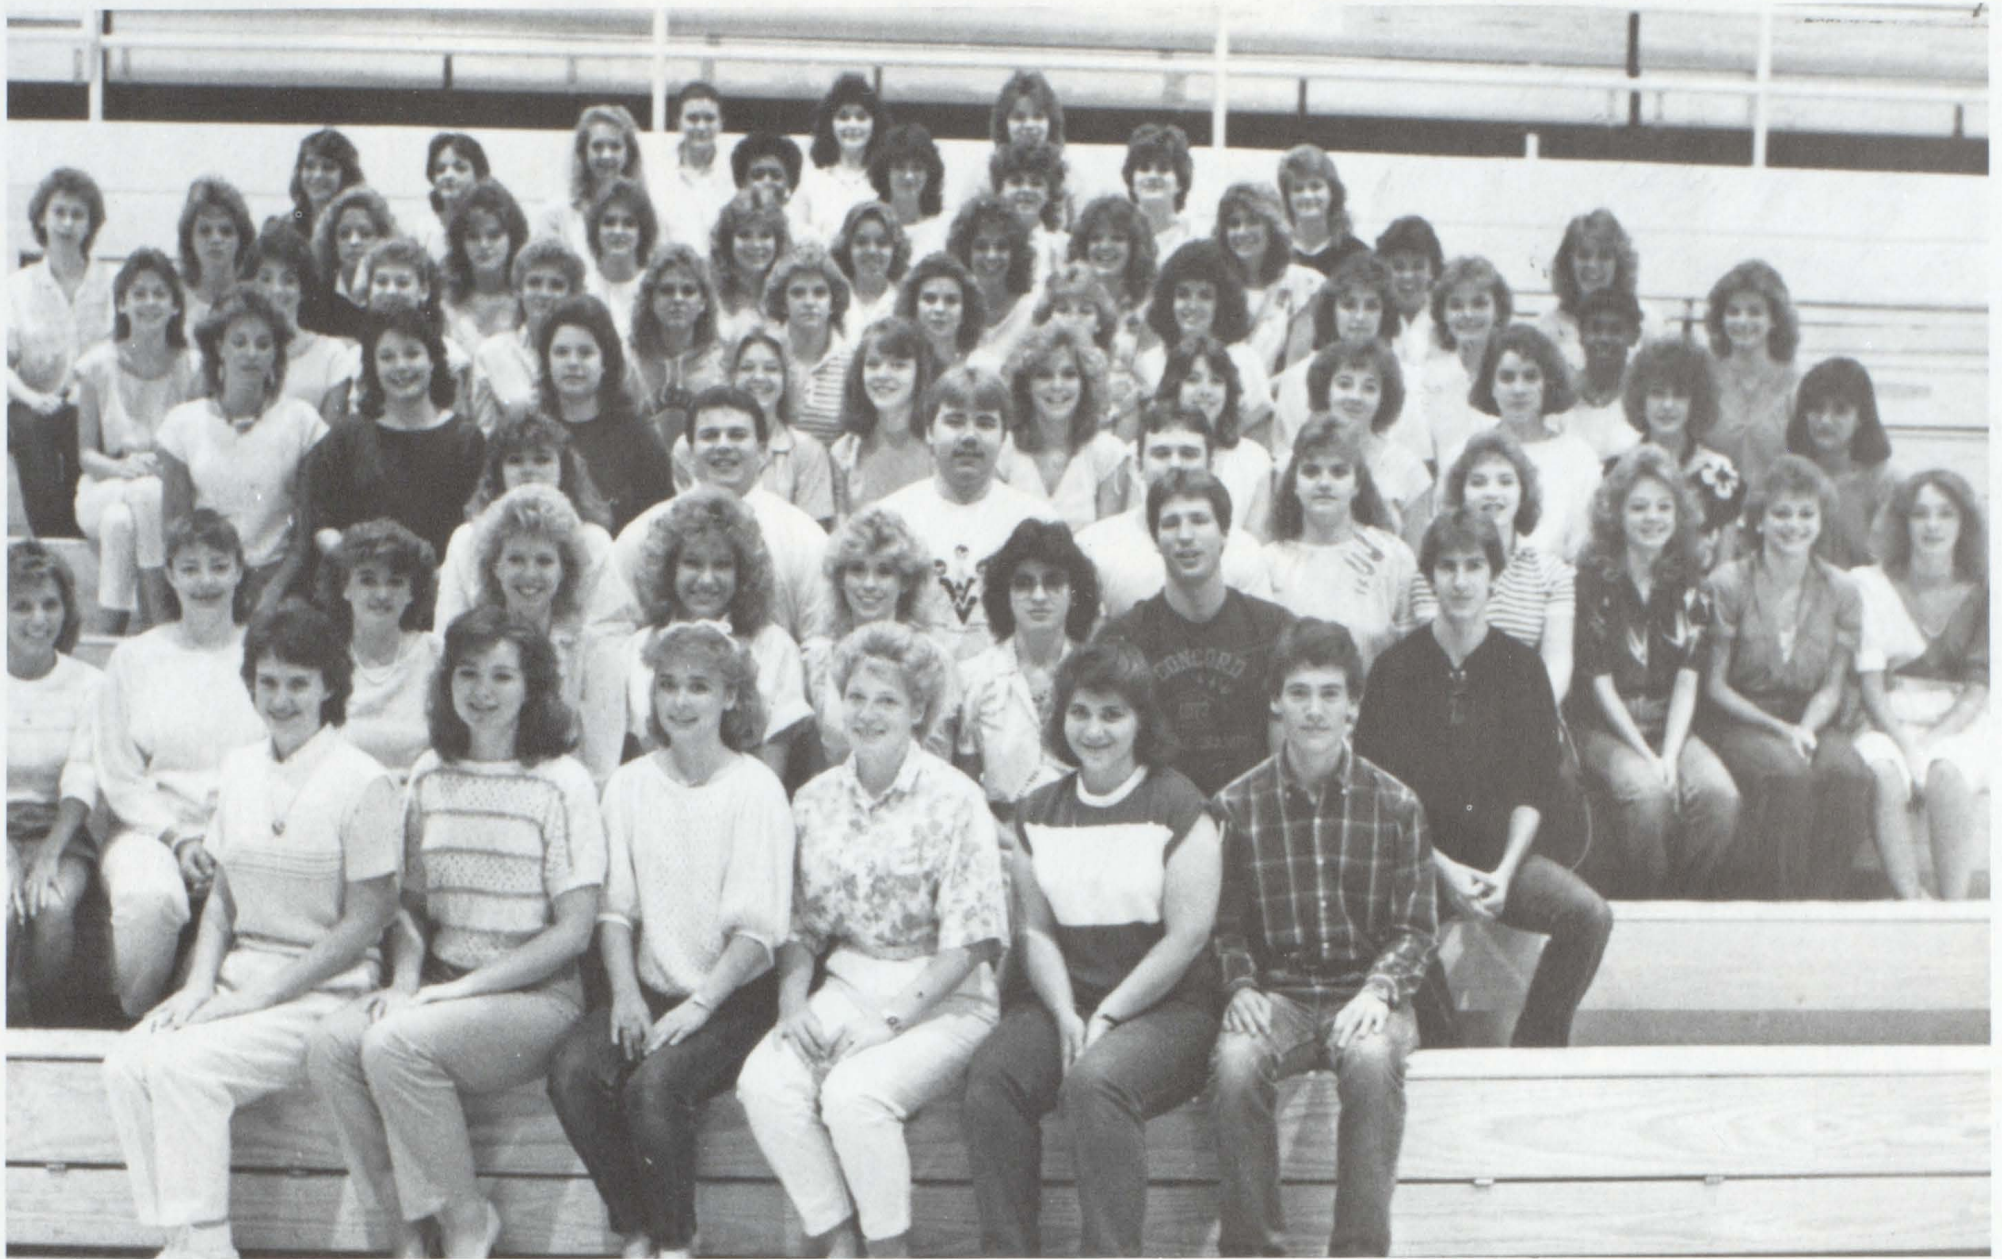

Special features of the French Club Banquet include the plays performed in French.

One attraction to the French Club is the delicious snacks prepared at each meeting.

PRE-ENGINEERING VICA

1984-85 VICA Officers from Princeton Senior High School

- AM President — Dusti Snider
- Vice-President — Lori Maynard
- Secretary — Missy Buckner
- Reporter — John Radford
- PM President — Rusty Blevins
- Vice-President — Gina Pardew

PRE-ENGINEERING

Upon completing the pre-engineering program, the students will have developed skills and competences in mechanical drafting, architectural drafting, surveying technology, lab testing, structural design, layout, blueprint reading, computer aided drafting, computer literacy, and principles of technology. The pre-engineering student may also accumulate college credit in the mid-management program offered through Bluefield State College.

These skills, competences, and college credit will directly contribute to a successful career for the pre-engineering student, regardless of what branch of industry or engineering he may choose.

TOP 20

At every high school there are always groups of students known as the "brains." They are the ones who actually do all of their homework every night, study for even the most trivial things, and always have a tremendous stack of books to carry home. Contrary to popular belief, these students are also among the school's most active in extra-curricular clubs. Seven people in the top twenty were presidents of various organizations while six other people held several other major offices. And yes, a few people in the top twenty even played sports. Consequently the top twenty are truly the "tops."

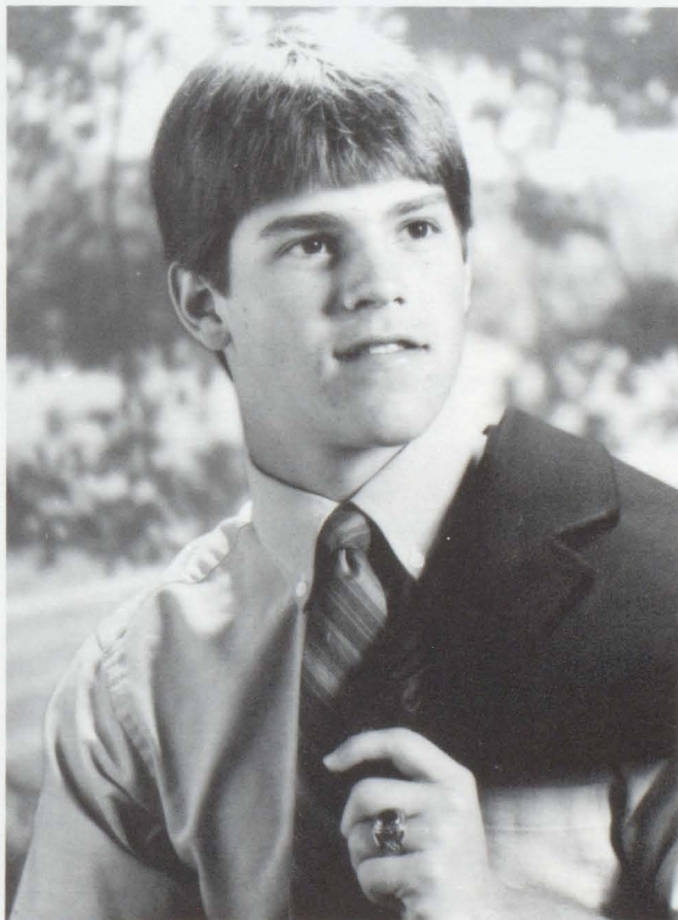

Valedictorian Eddy Reedy and Salutatorian Kristin Anderson.

Every month at PSHS the honor of being named Student of the Month is bestowed upon one senior. Because the students were voted upon by Mrs. Houchins's leadership class, these students have the distinction of having been chosen by their peers. Timm Boggess was named Student-of-the-Year.

Princeton Senior High School
Class of 1985

GRADUATION
JUNE 6, 1985

SENIOR AWARDS
DAY
MAY 31, 1985

Lisa cleans up her act.

These boys know how to behave in the commons area.

Good grooming is a must at PSHS.

Kevin goes on locker patrol.

Brian eases on down the road.

Jaclyn washes her paper plate.

Mark Shepherd sings "I Am the World".

Dwayne and Tracy show off their mugs for the camera.

Eddy Reedynski and Amir Pirachakowski concentrate on their serious chess game.

"Advice for the lovelorn" by Omar Aboulhosn.

Steve and Susan show off the latest fashions.

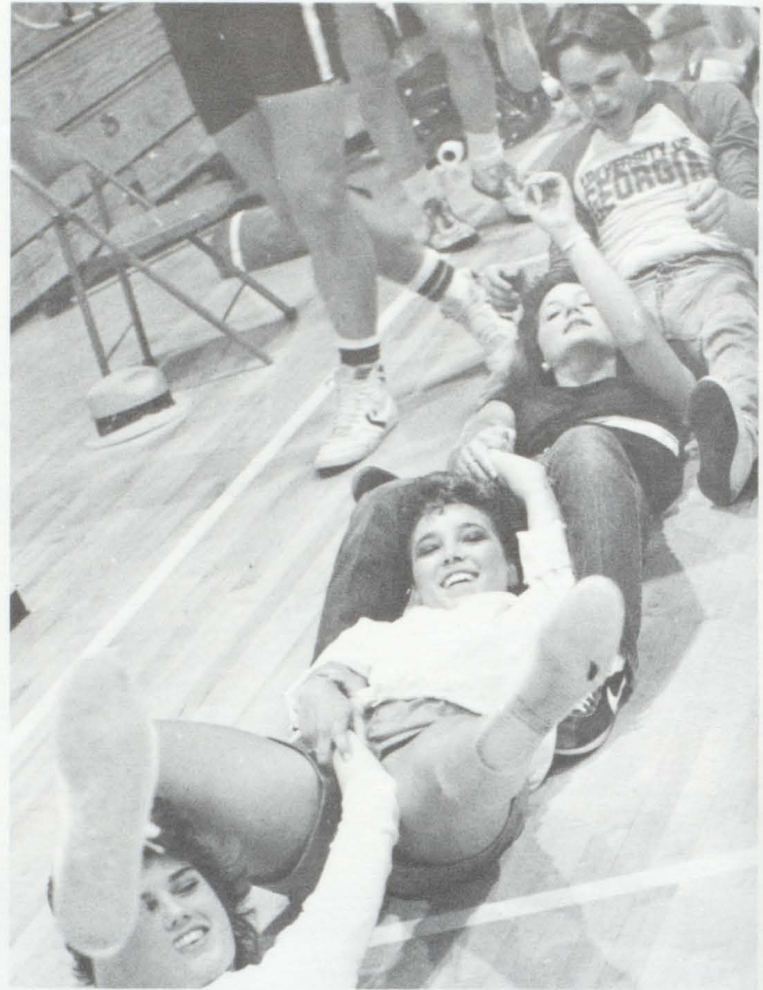

Weena, Rhonda, and Lisa think up ideas for the annual.

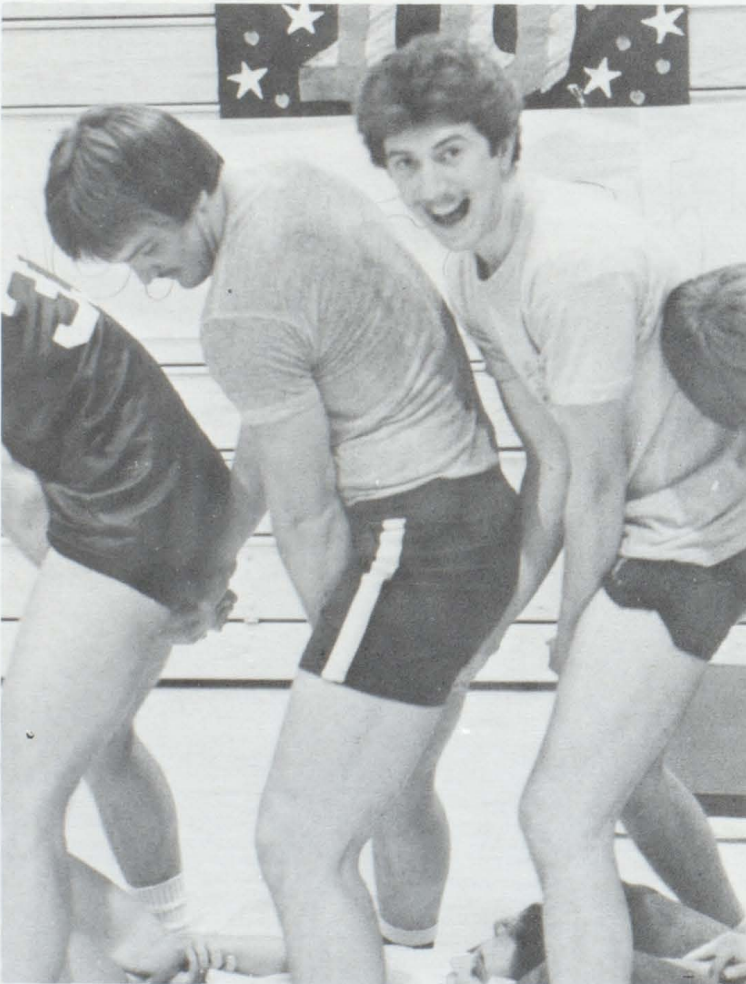

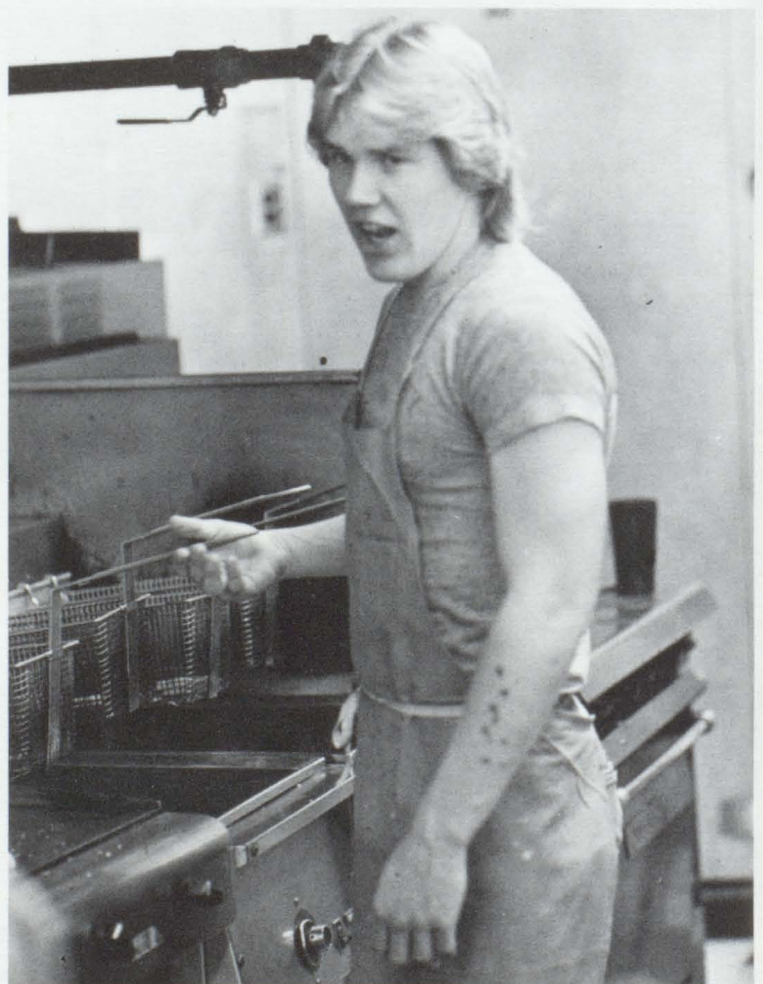

John, Tim, Felipe, and Ritchie try to "shovel" their way out of Mrs. Walls' office.

Seniors "train-in" a victory in the Clash of the Classes.

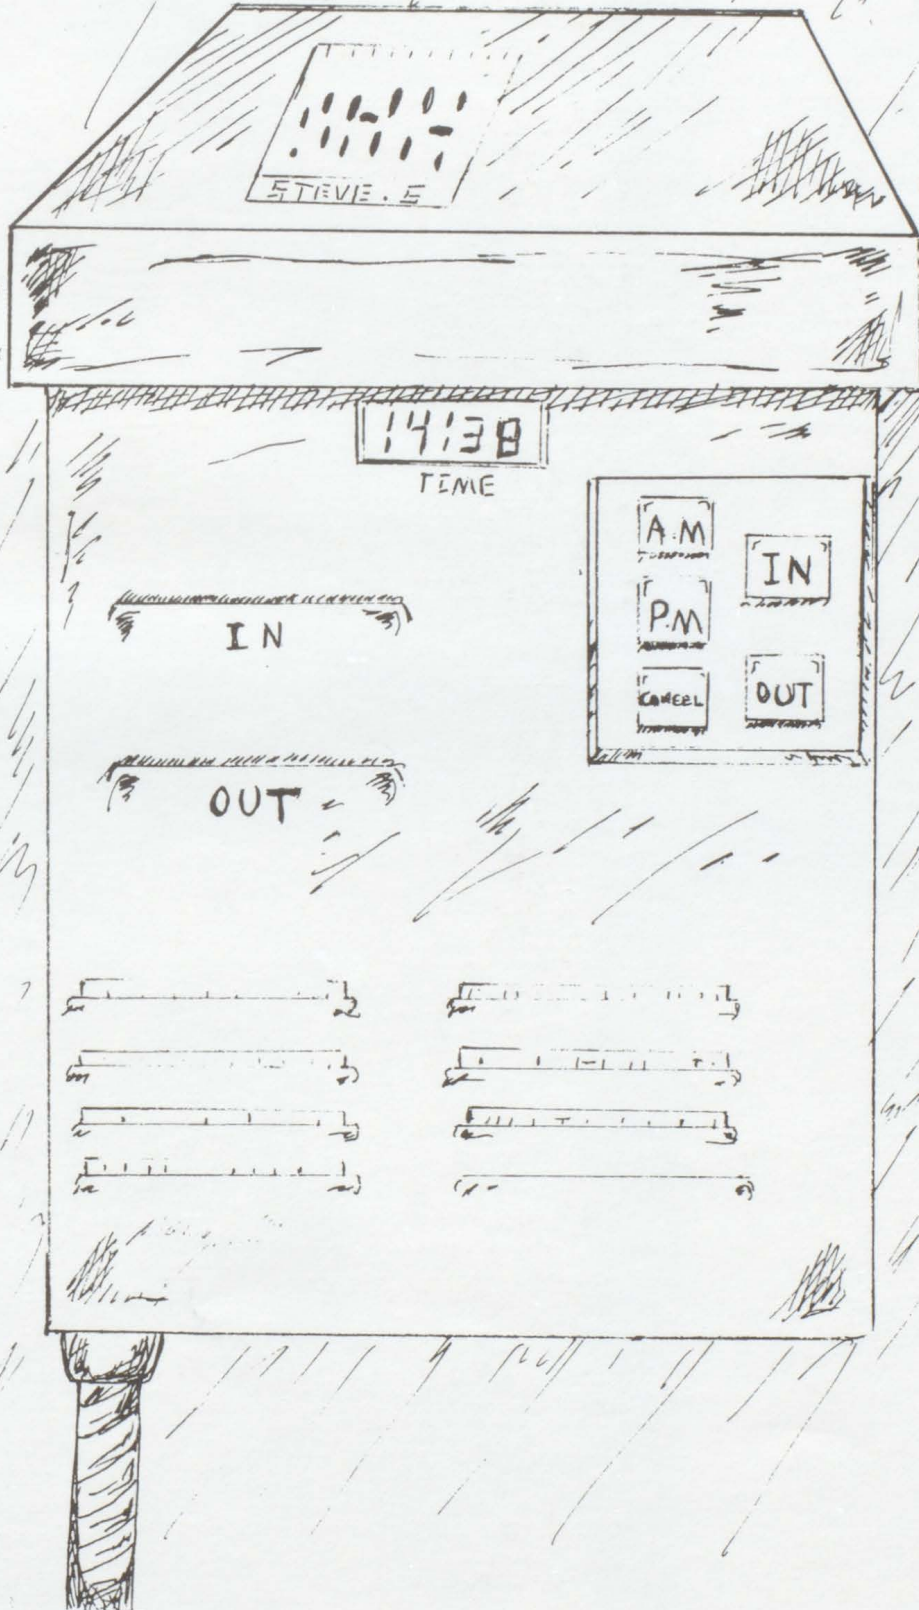

184 Carl and Mike show some senior spirit.

Sling that hash, David.
